ALL TRADES WILL STRIKE

AN ULTIMATUM SENT TO PACKERS

Settlement of Strike Demanded by Monday Morning on Penalty of General Walkout—Packers Preparing for Struggle.

Chicago, July 23.—Attempts to settle the second strike of the packing trade failed to day and to night the Butchers' union and allied organizations, after a long conference, sent an ultimatum to the representatives of the packers demanding a settlement of the strike before Monday morning on penalty of a general walk-out of all union employees at work in the stock yards at 7 o'clock Monday morning.

The conference between the representatives of the trades and packers and butchers, which adjourned last night after failing to reach an agreement, was resumed early this morning. At noon the conferees gave up hope of reaching an understanding and the deliberations were brought to an abrupt ending, after the packers had expressed a desire to live up to the terms of the arbitration agreement reached last Wednesday, right away wrongs that might have been committed by their foremen and superintendents and had announced to the union men the name of Samuel McLean, of the National Packing company, to represent them on the arbitration board provided for in the agreement which settled the original strike.

The union men refused positively to consider that agreement valid on the ground that it had been broken by the packers. They then retired to the office of the Federation of Labor, where an ultimatum to the packers was prepared.

THE ULTIMATUM.

The ultimatum, after reciting the alleged violation of last Wednesday's agreement, says:

"We desire to emphasize our belief in the principles of conciliation and arbitration, but to provide against such violations in the future we again offer the following proposition as a solution of the present difficulty:

"That all employees be hired back within ten days. Any person not re-employed at the end of that time, his or her case to be submitted to arbitration.

"That all employees in the killing, cutting and casing departments be reinstated in their former positions within forty-eight hours after resumption of work."

Notice is then given that unless the terms are met the allied trades will walk out Monday morning.

After the conference held to day the packers made public a statement in which they deny either a violation of the agreement or discrimination in rehiring men. They say the agreement was properly approved and signed by representatives of both sides and that no possible excuse can be offered for its violation on the part of Donnelly.

LABOR LEADERS' STATEMENT.

A committee of labor leaders also issued a statement after to day's conference. They review the situation from their point of view and refer to the conference of July 23 and the resulting agreement. After telling of strikers reporting for work under this agreement, the statement says:

"Great numbers of men and women were told in language unfit to repeat that they were not wanted, hence the second conference. The second strike was ordered. The packers and representatives of the trades got together again. The packers insisted that we try to put the agreement into operation, admitted violation and promised to see that it would not happen again. As union men we had to refuse this proposition and asked that an understanding be had which would return employees agreed upon. This they refused. We have now offered a final proposition, which, if rejected, will cause a cessation of all work on Monday."

PREPARE FOR STRUGGLE.

At the stock yards to night the packers are preparing for a long struggle. As soon as all peace negotiations were declared futile the heads of the different departments in the various plants were notified to hire all the workmen they could possibly obtain. From the progress made up to a late hour to night the indication was that fully 2,000 new men will have been engaged by to-morrow night. It is the intention of the packers to house these men inside the plants. Warehouses are being filled with permanent bunk beds and kitchens to accommodate the 5,000 men, who, it is claimed by the packers, will be inside the plants Monday morning.

WILL MAINTAIN PEACE.

Chief of Police O'Neill has called men from every precinct in Chicago to report at the stock yards station to-morrow to get acquainted with the surroundings. O'Neill said to night that the whole police force of Chicago would be at the call of the stock yards district Monday and peace maintained at any price.

Although the strikers were greatly excited over the unsuccessful efforts to settle the strike, there was little violence throughout the district.

PACKERS REPLY.

The reply of the combined packers to the ultimatum of the allied trades was delivered late to night. They emphatically deny that there has been any violation of the agreement on their part, and that whatever trouble followed the return of the men could have been adjusted had the unions desired to do so. The packers say:

"We regard Donnelly's action as entirely unjustified in calling the second strike on sensational misleading reports within an average of thirty minutes from the time the men were ordered to work, and before it was possible for any considerable number to have been placed, without making the slightest effort to verify such reports, or to have them remedied if found to exist."

"We have a definite agreement with our employees, the same having been signed by their representatives and the representatives of all mechanical and allied trades, and we stand ready on our part to see that it is carried out."

PACKERS WARNED.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 23.—The Retail Butchers' association of Allegheny county has served notice upon local packing houses that they will permanently withdraw their trade from any house which advances prices under cover of the meat workers' strike.

IN OTHER CITIES.

Kansas City, July 23.—At three plants it is asserted more business is being done than before the strike. Killing at the Cudahy and Swartzschild & Sulzberg plants is suspended temporarily.

St. Louis, July 23.—Everything is quiet in the vicinity of the packing houses to day. Business men with whom the strikers trade say unless the strike is settled soon they will be compelled to close up.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 23.—There were a number of serious disturbances in the packing district to night, but no one was seriously hurt. The packers say enough men are coming to fully man the plants, and that they do not fear a sympathetic strike.

COTTON MILL WORKERS

Preparations Made to Strike Monday Against Reduction in Wages.

Fall River, Mass., July 23.—Preparations were completed to night for the strike of cotton mill operatives on Monday against a reduction in wages. Thirty thousand persons will be affected by the strike.

CHICAGO TRAGEDY.

Chicago, July 23.—James Merrigan, a machinist, to night shot and fatally injured his wife and then killed himself. Before Merrigan shot himself he drained the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid. The couple had lived together eight years, but separated three weeks ago on account of repeated quarrels.

BROKE RECORD.

Denver, Colo., July 23.—In an official speed trial to day Jim Ferry, a Denver horse, broke the world's trotting record for a half-mile to a road wagon over a half-mile track, making the time in 1:32.74. The previous record of 1:33.74 was held by Crescius.

STATUTES VS. INK BOTTLE

Encounter Between Members of Georgia Legislature—Both Men Censured by Assembly.

Atlanta, Ga., July 23.—As a result of an encounter on the floor of the house of representatives yesterday, Steed and Buchanan, Georgia legislators, may settle their differences on the field of honor.

Steed, in explaining his position on a certain bill, referred to Buchanan in a disparaging way, and the latter retorted with, "You are a knave and a liar."

Steed instantly seized a big ink well and hurled it at Buchanan. The ink well caught Buchanan squarely in the face, cutting a gash and almost knocking him down.

Steed then rushed at Buchanan, but the latter recovered in time almost to tell the former with a copy of the statutes of Georgia.

The men got together and soon were at it rough-and-tumble. Other legislators joined in, supposedly to separate the combatants, but they only made matters worse. It was not until someone cried, "He's going to shoot!" that the crowd scattered and quiet was restored.

RESULT OF A QUARREL.

Shawneetown, Ill., July 23.—Barney Lancaster was shot and killed and Elmer Wood fatally injured by George Scott on the Ohio river to day. The tragedy was the result of a quarrel. Scott is still at large. The remains of Lancaster were shipped to his home at Princeton, Iowa.

RUSSIA TAKES ANOTHER SHIP.

HAMBURG AMERICAN LINE STEAMER SEIZED

German Foreign Office Asked to Secure an Explanation—Two British Ships Captured by Russians—War Reports.

Suez, July 23.—The Hamburg-American line steamer Scandia, seized by Russians in the Red sea, entered the canal in charge of a Russian prize crew. Her destination is unknown.

Hamburg, July 23.—Officials of the Hamburg-American line declare the seizure of the Scandia was inexplicable, as her manifest shows she did not carry any kind of war material for Japan. The company has asked the foreign office to take the matter up and secure an explanation.

MORE SEIZURES.

London, July 23.—Count Beckendorff, Russian ambassador, has received official notification from St. Petersburg reporting the capture of two more British ships in the Red sea, and instruction from his government to notify Great Britain the same procedure will be followed as in the case of the Malacca, namely, the vessels will be taken to a neutral port for examination by the consuls of the two nations concerned.

St. Petersburg, July 23.—The Russian government has given formal assurances to Germany that there will be no repetition of the Prinz Heinrich incident. Regarding the seizure of the steamer Scandia, it is pointed out the vessel may have been captured by the St. Petersburg before orders of the Russian government were received.

Great Britain formally raised the question of the war status of the St. Petersburg July 20, and was formally assured orders had been issued to prevent Red sea cruisers from seizing any more British ships.

St. Petersburg, July 23.—The Associated Press is able to announce Russia has formally notified Great Britain an order has been issued to the Russian cruisers in the Red sea not to arrest any more merchantmen and it has been agreed between the powers that if, pending receipt of these orders by the captains of the St. Petersburg and Smolensk, any other ships should be stopped and held as prizes, these acts shall be regarded as not having taken place and the ships concerned at once released.

St. Petersburg, July 23.—While not admitting the illegality of Russian direction in converting vessels of the volunteer fleet into warships after they reached the Red sea, it is probable in view of the neutral vessels did not receive previous notice, Russia will formally notify the powers of their conversion into warships, thus putting neutrals on their guard.

SEIZURE OF SCANDIA.

Berlin, July 23.—The feeling aroused by the seizure of the Hamburg-American line steamer Scandia grows in intensity. The Neustadt Nachrichten declares that Russia is unable apparently to appreciate considerable friendship and asks for whom Prussia plunged into the adventure of the trial of socialists at Koensigsberg and who was responsible for its failure and for the moral triumph of the social democrats. The paper characterizes the Russian volunteer fleet of steamers as "imperial Russian licensed sea robbers and pirates" and demands more energetic measures be taken in the matter.

The Tagessblatt says: "The country expects the man at its head to do his duty."

WAR REPORTS.

Tokio, July 23.—The Vladivostok squadron was seen at noon yesterday eighty miles off Hailchi. The squadron was going south.

St. Petersburg, July 23.—Detachments of Russian troops gave battle at Sibel pass July 17 to a superior force of Japanese. The Russians retired with the loss of an officer and forty-six men killed, four officers and 182 men wounded.

In another fight on the 19th, on the Ukden road, the Russians fell back on Sibirsk before the Japanese advance guard. The Japanese suffered considerable losses.

Liao Yang, July 23.—Two Japanese divisions tried to break through General Keller's left, but reinforcements were received and a successful stand made.

Tien Tsin, July 23.—A telegram from New Chwang says Europeans there have been warned to leave. The reason is not given.

Tatshienkiao, July 23.—Rain has been falling for two days and movements of both Russian and Japanese troops are suspended. The real rainy season seems to have set in.

Tokio, July 23.—It is announced from Uraga, the clearance port of the Junk trade for Tokio, that cannonading at sea was heard there.

Chicago, July 23.—A special to the News from Nagasaki, Japan, says: "Dispatches from Omura state that a strong Russian position at Shimou, ten miles east of Liao Yang, was captured by the Japanese on July 19. The Mikado's men lost 208 in the attack."

Tokio, July 24, 10 a. m.—The Vladivostok squadron was sighted at 8 o'clock this morning (Sunday) thirty miles off the southern coast of the province of Iseu, it was veering to the east. Iseu forms a peninsula between Buruga and Sagami bays. It is about seventy miles southwest of Yokohama.

St. Petersburg, July 23.—A telegram from Liao Yang says the work of repairing the railroad has been completed and an order has been issued declaring all persons, of whatever rank or nationality, found crossing the line will be shot on the spot.

Hamburg, July 23.—It is said the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiserin Maria Therese and four Hamburg-American liners, recently purchased by Russia, have left Libau, on the Baltic, under sealed orders, fully armed and equipped as cruisers.

Paris, July 24.—The correspondent of the Math in Yinkow says a violent cannonade lasting several hours was heard north of Kaichow July 23. The Russians claim to have retaken Kaichow July 21 and say the fight reported for the result of the Japs resuming the offensive.

St. Petersburg, July 23.—A badly mutilated dispatch from Tatshienkiao, dated July 20, received here, indicates that an engagement of some importance had occurred on the sea coast road between Kaichow and Yinkow. The dispatch says the Russians made a night attack on a fortified Japanese camp at Sangoss, on the sea coast north of Kaichow. They got within close range and opened fire on the camp before being discovered and forced the retirement of the Japs toward Kaichow, but the next day the Russians abandoned their position.

POLICEMAN SHOT

The shooting occurred in front of a saloon. The men who did it escaped in the darkness. The vigilance committee immediately had many objectionable characters arrested. It is reported a pitched battle occurred a mile east of town, but details are unavailable.

Forty persons were deported to day. During a raid the police captured a wagon containing dynamite and burglar tools. Acting under the advice of Government Agent McPhane, the governor to day ordered two companies of militia to be ready for duty on the opening day.

FOUGHT SIX FAST ROUNDS

BATTLE BETWEEN FITZSIM- MONS AND O'BRIEN

Both Men on Their Feet at Close of Contest But Bore Marks of Fight—Witnessed by 6,000 Persons.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 23.—Jack O'Brien and Bob Fitzsimmons to day fought the fastest six round bout ever witnessed in this city between men of their weight. When the gong announced the close of the fight both men were on their feet, but bore marks of the grueling fight they had just gone through. Fitzsimmons' lips were twice the normal size and his left eye was almost closed, while O'Brien's left eye was also cut and swollen. While O'Brien landed the greatest number of blows they did not do nearly so much damage as those landed by Fitzsimmons, and the latter was the fresher at the close of the fight.

There was not a clean knock down during the bout, but three times O'Brien went to the floor, twice in endeavoring to get away from Fitzsimmons and the third time partly from Fitzsimmons' right which landed on O'Brien's neck and partly through the latter's feet getting tangled.

The fight was held on the National league base ball grounds and was witnessed by 6,000 persons, among them a number of women.

BY ROUNDS.

Round 1—Fitz led with his left, but missed, and as O'Brien ducked he landed a right on the back of the neck. O'Brien landed a light on Fitzsimmons' face and the men clinched. Fitz landed a light right on O'Brien's wind and the latter drew blood from Fitzsimmons' mouth. Jack again landed on Fitzsimmons' nose and got away without return. Jack then knocked the skin off Fitzsimmons' nose with a light upper cut and drew blood in a stream from his mouth. Bob missed a ferocious right and O'Brien, in attempting to get away, fell to the floor. Jack had all the best of the round.

Round 2—Both fought and Fitz missed two lefts, but landed a third on Jack's jaw, and as the latter rushed in Fitz drove a right to the stomach. O'Brien landed a hard right and left to Bob's jaw, bringing blood again. Fitz was unable to land with success on O'Brien up to this time. O'Brien cut Fitz's left eye with a short right and a moment later caught him full in the mouth. O'Brien's foot work was marvelous and Fitz was badly wounded. Bob landed a hard right to the stomach as the bell sounded, which was the most damaging blow O'Brien had yet received.

Round 3—The men danced around the ring and then Fitz missed a hard right for the jaw. He landed a light left on O'Brien's stomach, and the latter drove a straight left to Bob's mouth, again starting blood. Fitz landed a hard left on O'Brien's wind, which made the latter flinch. O'Brien missed a left to face and the men clinched. Fitz tried the right for the wind, but was short, and Jack countered with a hard right to the face. In the exchange of blows Bob landed a hard left on Jack's chin and O'Brien brought his left flush on Bob's jaw. The men were clinched at the bell.

Round 6—Fitz led with left, but missed. He landed the same blow a second later and drove a left to the wind which took some steam out of Jack. Fitz opened a cut over Jack's left eye and drove a right to the wind. O'Brien landed right and left to the face, but his blows lacked power. Bob landed a right to the jaw and O'Brien countered with left to Fitzsimmons' damaged mouth. Both men were bleeding profusely. O'Brien slipped to the floor in attempting to get away from Fitz' right. Fitz landed a left to the wind and Jack countered with a left to the mouth. The men clinched at the gong sounded.

As the men walked to their corners O'Brien's left eye had a nasty gash over it and Fitzsimmons' left eye was almost closed. While Fitz sat in his corner his wife, who had been watching the fight from the ring side, walked up the steps and planted a kiss upon her husband's swollen lips.

ONLY TWO OFFICERS ELECTED.

St. Paul, July 23.—After an exciting session lasting from two this afternoon until a quarter past seven this evening, only two elections were made by the delegates to the national convention of the Ladies Catholic Benevolent association. Mrs. E. B. McCowan, of Buffalo, N. Y., who has held the office of president ever since the organization was founded, was re-elected. Mrs. Mary A. Flannigan, of Syracuse, N. Y., was again chosen first vice president.

At the morning session all proposed amendments to the constitution remaining over from yesterday's session were acted upon.

JOCKEY KILLED

Ernest Sowell Lost His Life on Race Track—Ort Wells Wins Brighton Derby.

New York, July 23.—The sport at Brighton Beach was marred to day by the fatal injury to Jockey Ernest Sowell. In the second race, Opuntia, on the back stretch, fell at a jump, throwing Sowell and then rolling on him. The jockey died soon afterward in a hospital.

Ort Wells, winner of the Commonwealth handicap, Lawrence Realization and many other stakes, to day added another to his already long list by capturing the $10,000 Brighton derby. The Drake horse was ridden out to beat Broomstick, by one and a half lengths. Knight Errant was third, three lengths back. After the jockeys had weighed out the stewards disqualified Broomstick for interfering with Ort Wells in making the turn into the stretch the first time. Knight Errant was officially placed second and Boboloid third. Time, 2:32.5, with two-fifths of a second of the track record for the distance.

Descriptive Story of Trip by Party of Forty-Niners

Heslep's Company Organized in Morgan County When the Gold Fever Was at Its Height—Judge Cyrus Epler One of the Three Survivors.

The following extracts are taken from a series of articles entitled "A Forty-Niner," written by G. W. Reaugh and published in the Enterprise of Oak Cliff, Texas, and the Transcript of Terrell, Texas. The original members of the party were: Joe Heslep, W. M. Heslep, Dr. Heslep, Tom Turley, Tom Moss, Cyrus Epler, J. Galbreath, Milt Wilson, Tom Coeran, W. M. Sims, Dan Robb, J. N. Robb, Tall Collins, Perry Craig, Sam Craig, Ludlum, Jake Shultz, Dick Stoker, Hullett Clark, Drake, Benson, W. M. Morton, Huffaker, Duesse, H. Baldwin, M. Baldwin, Wash Graff, Sam Rose, J. Slack, Bland, Larough, Sam Fanning, G. Evans, Abe Grimsby, Milfred Reese, W. M. Reaugh, George Reaugh, Dr. Roberts.

The Journal is indebted to Walter Hanback, of Murrayville, for the papers from which the extracts are taken.

"I have just returned from a visit to my old home where I met one of my old companions, Hon. Cyrus Epler, of Jacksonville, Ill., with whom I made the trip across the mountains and plains to the California gold fields in '49. We recalled many of our experiences during that trip which may be of interest.

"The writer remembers the hundreds of teams plodding their way slowly along, and wondered how long it would take them to reach the other side of the continent. A few indeed never reached the other side, but left their bleached bones along the way. The majority however, reached their destination all right, most of them with improved health. It was in the spring of 1849 that the fever reached Jacksonville, and what was known as Heslep's company was organized. It numbered forty men with Heslep as leader. Of course there was nothing like military discipline exercised but much depended on the leader. According to best information, only F. Moss, Frank Heslep, C. Deweese, G. W. Reaugh and Cyrus Epler are the only survivors of this expedition.

"Mules were the motive power to pull the heavily laden wagons on their long journey although some companies used ox teams which stood the test very well. The wagons were strong and well filled for the trip. The wheels were fastened on with linch pins, which would be a novelty to day.

"Independence, Mo., was a rendezvous for all California and Santa Fe traders at that time. It took the whole of one summer to make the trip to Santa Fe and return before winter. Our company started April 10, 1849 and the first objective point was Independence. There a halt of two weeks was made on account of some of the company being attacked with cholera and also waiting for the grass to grow sufficiently for the teams to graze. There we found a general supply for our outfit for the journey across the plains. Other parties joined us here which made our party number forty-eight men.

"On May 10, we left Independence. Fifteen miles west of Independence we left the last house and plunged resolutely into the wilderness. Here the experiences of the trip began. Rain, mud, rapid streams, storms, sunshine, wind and calm were all encountered.

"Each wagon was drawn by six mules and driven by one man. The country through which we traveled was then known as the American desert. We left all civilization behind in the 800 mile trip to the Rockies. Our route lay along the north side of the Arkansas river following the old Santa Fe trail.

"To day for the first time we see some of the Indian barbarity. A short distance from the road we saw two scalps stuck up on a pole; then passed on a short distance and saw the bodies of three white men buried in a gully, partly covered with stones. We passed several graves up to this point. Disease, generally cholera, which followed us about 200 miles on our trip then died completely out. No more natural deaths on our journey after this.

"Now we are about 300 miles from the states; this being our last day in the buffalo country. June 10 we saw a large body of Indians making toward us which caused great confusion in camp. We were lying by at this time. We rushed to get in our teams and run our wagons in a hollow square. The men were soon under arms and formed a line on the river bank ready for action, about 100 in all.

"June 25: To-day we had the misfortune to lose one of our men by the following circumstances: A thunder storm came up with wind and rain. Instead of turning from the storm, he turned to it. His team turned sharp around. He jumped to catch them and got tangled in the lines and was crushed under the wheel and died in a few hours. We carried his body to the village of Pueblo and buried it the best we could under the circumstances.

"Pueblo is a small village composed of Indians, Mexicans and two white men. We were three days crossing the river; two marching to Green

Horn village. This was the beginning of Trinidad on Green Horn creek. Green Horn contains fifteen families, ten white men and one white woman, a few Spaniards and Indians with a few half-breeds.

"While we lay in camp here, a company of fifty men was organized to go out on a prospecting tour for gold, which was said to exist in a place named Tuba. However, the expedition proved a failure. Only a few particles of gold were found. Now there was a general breaking up of the companies, all in a quandry what to do. Finally we couldn't agree on any one thing but divided into three parties.

"Now we are on the Santa Cruz river. After two days traveling we found that the water had all sunk in the sand. We have a forty mile stretch without water. Our sufferings were terrible. Our teams seem to suffer more than we did. We came to an Indian village named Tabue. We lay by two days to recruit our teams. Here we witnessed an Indian dance by the Pinos. The Pinos had been at war with the Apaches and had captured two prisoners. They were having a big powwow over their victory and finally burned them at the stake.

"One night as we lay in camp we lost two more mules that were stolen by the Indians. Broke camp and on the march again. To day we passed over some rugged mountains, broke one of our wagons which caused us to lay by for repairs. After traveling some distance down the river we found the water dried up. The valley being arid and dry was destitute of grass. A fog of dust all the time for the past few days. Now we arrive at the bank of the Gila river. This is a nice clear stream, thirty yards wide and fordable in some places, the bed being quicksand, which makes it dangerous for man or beast.

"Six miles below this point we reached the Pinos village, if I may call it a village. It is about twenty miles one way and six the other, said to contain 7,000 or 8,000 thousand inhabitants. Soon after we stopped there was a crowd around us to trade produce for clothes or money. They had corn, wheat, melons and vegetables. They have a system of irrigation to water their crops. They also manufacture some other articles, such as crockery, footwear and woolen and cotton goods. Their mode of weaving is somewhat novel. They fasten two smooth sticks parallel to each other the length they want the web, then they put the filling in with a wooden needle, then beat it with a piece of wood made for the purpose. When it is done it is quite nice, even and substantial.

"Men are almost destitute of clothing except a breach cloth. The women wear a skirt from their waist down to their knees. The children are entirely naked. Their religion is Catholic, but they have a very vague idea of religion, but their morals are better than their neighbors, the Mexicans. The practice of polygamy is not tolerated among them in the case of most tribes that we have passed through. They have several chiefs. The head chief is appointed by the Mexican government, it being in the state of Sonora. Often we were annoyed by Indians coming into camp for mere curiosity sake, going through each camp to steal anything they could lay their hands on. An old buck wanted something hot to drink. I had a bottle of old No. 6 which I gave him. He took only one swallow, which satisfied him. He rolled in the dirt and rubbed it in his mouth and used cuss words. He would say: "Dam Hell." He got that from the Americans. Another wanted to trade for an old revolver. The old fellow was a little afraid to shoot, but he turned the muzzle up to look at it, but forgot the trigger and it pulled it off. The ball struck his forehead, knocking the skin off a place about three inches long, then throwing it down it shot again. He broke and ran and said: "I no like." So I lost the trade and liked to have lost the Indian, too.

"October 25th we broke camp again. We leave the river cutting off a bond, traveled forty-five miles without water or grass. The whole way is a fog of dust and the weather hot. Again on the river. Now we begin to see the effects of hard times. The last three days has been very hard pulling for our teams. The last few days traveled near the Buttes. Crossed two spurs of the mountains which come up to the river bank. On the opposite side of the river were some reefs which furnished our stock with some green feed. Here a terrible murder was committed. One man had shot and killed his mesquite just after dark at supper time. The corpse was buried the same night and at the close of the burial the company or parts of three companies organized a court to try the case. They selected a jury of twelve by lot from companies near by and then proceeded with the case. The same night, it was about 11 o'clock, the jury was ordered to retire to their respective places and to meet together in the morning before breakfast and give in their verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be shot. The sentence was duly carried out and twelve men were detailed to perform the execution. Twelve guns were loaded, six with powder and six with bullets. Six bullets pierced his body and he was buried on the spot.

"We are now at Fort Yuma, on the Colorado river, the river being about 600 yards wide, the current swift and deep. About forty dragons are stationed here under Lieutenant Couch to aid and protect immigrants against Indians. A ferry is established here which is quite convenient for the immigrants and general trade, the fare being 50 cents for a man and 75 cents for a mule. We met a large train of Mexicans who were returning from the gold mines carrying a large quantity of dust. One of them tried to smuggle through twenty-eight ounces without paying the duty, which is $1 per ounce. Here we have the first good news of the large amount of gold in California. We were told that we had passed the worst part of the desert except two or three days just before us.

"I will narrate a little incident which happened while gathering beans. I went to a grove of trees about one mile from camp and found plenty of beans and was looking for good trees when I almost ran over an old decrepit Indian woman lying on the ground, apparently dead. I was a little startled and left the beans, sack and all and started for the camp. I told them I found lots of beans and something else, too. One of the boys said: "What the devil did you do with the sack," and I said wait and I will tell you my story, but didn't get much credit for it until some of the party went back to the spot. They were now convinced that my story was true except that she was not dead as I had supposed. Under the circumstances we did not know what to do. Finally we decided to leave some water crackers and beans and left her to her fate. Of course she would finally perish. From the signs the Indians had camped there several days before. When they left she not being able to travel they left her to perish. We gathered several bushels of beans for each of our teams.

"One incident which I will mention took place at the camp on the river. I saw a wrecked wagon near a cluster of bushes which I supposed was abandoned by some unfortunate, but learned that a family had been massacred by the Indians a short time before. I will give the particulars as follows: The family had been traveling with a Texas company and being heavily loaded with family goods, requested their friends to leave them and not hold back on their account. During the night three Indians came to the camp, begging something to eat. In a short time several others came into camp and began a general massacre of the family without mercy. One son was wounded, but made his escape in the brush nearby. Next day he was found and told his story. Now we are passing through a range of the Sierra Nevada.

"Come to a narrow pass one mile long, some places were so narrow that we had to lift our wagons around. Passed Warner's ranch, next place Victor Springs. Here we passed the Mexican commissioners on their way to establish a line between Mexico and California. Moved on to Colonel Williams' ranch covered all over with wild oats as far as the eye could see. We lay by here a few days to buy provisions and to recruit our teams. Moved on to Rolling ranch, from there to San Gabriel Mission, from there to Los Angeles. Distance from Fort Yuma to Los Angeles 2265 miles. Time traveling twenty-two days. Remained here eight days. We learned that it was 500 miles to the gold mines, all the way were mountains, hills, valleys and swollen streams to encounter. The rainy season was now approaching which would make it impossible to pull through at this time.

"To day we overtook three wagons water bound waiting for the water to go down; it being a rapid deep stream. We cried out: "We have a bot to carry you across." Our bed had been made tight for that purpose. All hands went to work calking our boat as best we could. It was soon done, but now some trouble to get a line across the stream, it being about fifty feet wide. Finally we tied several picket ropes together, then tied an iron picket to the end and threw the rope across to the other side until it anchored to a bush. Now our ferry was established and ready for business. Our wagons were taken off and pulled over one at a time. Then the running gear the same way. We swam our stock over alright.

"Nov. 11th: On march again. Traveled twelve miles to San Jose Mission, then passed Livermore ranch across another range of mountains into the San Jose valley to a river of the same name. We found a ferry established across the river. Then moved on to a French camp near Stockton, from there to the mines, a distance of seventy miles. Now our journey is ended, being on the road from April 10th, 1849, to February 6th, 1850. The whole distance traveled from home to the mines according to our account being 8,255 miles. The experiences of this trip reads like a romance. The time it took getting across by land or around by Panama was rather long compared with the great transcontinental lines running over the continent to day. It shows what the great energy of the American people has accomplished and doubtless the living fifty years hence will look back on the ways of to day and wonder how we managed to get along with our present facilities.

CLAIM CHECK SYSTEM

New Departure by the Alton Road in This City.

Mr. F. J. Waddell in company with the merchants of Jacksonville having asked the Alton road with the other line to inaugurate the parcel claim check system here, the agent, Oscar L. Hill, yesterday received the following letter from Mr. T. J. Burns, district passenger agent of that company at Springfield:

"Your letter of recent date, together with petition of F. J. Waddell & Company and others for a package claim check system at Jacksonville. We will be pleased to comply with this request and will put the same in effect just as soon as we can get the tickets prepared. In addition to this we propose to make a decided improvement in the manner of handling the baggage at your station, believing that the business of Jacksonville will justify us in making the same arrangement for the proper and safe handling of baggage that we now have in effect at Springfield and Bloomington and we will put in effect there the claim check system on baggage, and baggage will only be checked from your station on claim checks, so that it will not be necessary for ladies and others to personally identify their baggage when having it rechecked. Under this system, as you understand, the transfer company and all licensed baggage haulers, should have their own checks and when they take a piece of baggage from the hotel or residence they should issue the duplicate check to the passenger and this duplicate check must be presented by the passenger, together with their transportation when the baggage is checked from your station. In case that the owner of the baggage delivers it with his own conveyance at your baggage room, you will be supplied with C. & A. claim checks and one of these should be used for each piece of baggage so delivered and held until the baggage is checked.

The inauguration of the above system will doubtless be appreciated by the citizens of Jacksonville and will certainly be a great convenience. It will assure the safe handling of baggage and will relieve the traveler of anxiety and annoyance frequently arising over the identification of trunks and parcels. This step on the part of the Alton is in the line of progress and is indicative of a disposition to give the city every convenience possible in the line of easy travel.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERVICES HELD

Over the Remains of George E. Doying—Sermon by Dr. W. F. Short—Floral Emblems Most Beautiful—Interment in Diamond Grove Cemetery.

Funeral services over the remains of Mr. George E. Doying were held at the family residence on Grove street Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There was a large attendance of sympathizing friends who had known Mr. Doying intimately in life and who were present to show their esteem and to honor him in death.

Dr. W. F. Short was in charge of the services, assisted by Dr. A. B. Morey and Dr. C. M. Brown. Dr. Brown read several selected passages of Scripture and Dr. Morey offered a fervent prayer. The funeral address was delivered by Dr. Short, who spoke feelingly and with great earnestness. He said:

"Jonathan was a counselor, a wise man and a scribe."

Jonathan is one of the most noble and illustrious characters of Old Testament history. He was distinguished for his high and honorable qualities of head and heart and conduct. His deep and sincere love for his nephew, David, under the unnatural and unreasonable persecutions of King Saul, his father, has long been regarded as one of the most remarkable examples of true friendship in all history, and crowned him with universal and imperishable fame, and admiration. Though soon to be the successor of his father to the throne, yet his strong sense of right and justice would not allow him to approve his father's cruel pursuit of young David. His great friendship for his nephew was not grounded only on the natural bond of kinship, but rather upon the high moral qualities of David, and his love of justice. Such qualities in his esteem outweighed the price of office and titles. The death of Jonathan was lamented by David in one of the noblest and most pathetic odes ever uttered by genius consecrated by pious friendship. We have here three statements concerning Jonathan that are very suggestive and which we may profitably study:

First, it is affirmed that he was a counselor. That implies the possession of certain necessary qualities of both mind and heart.

1. Intelligence is a necessary qualification in a counselor. A knowledge of the matters about which counsel is desired and given is essential. A wise counselor is generally supposed to have an intelligent knowledge of a wide variety of subjects, which adds value to his counsel in any particular matter. The ground of his usefulness as a counselor may be his education, his observation, his experience, or his age. If these elements unite in a counselor, they greatly augment the worth of his counsel.

2. Disinterestedness is a necessary qualification in a counselor. Personal interest in the matter about which counsel is asked, whether little or much, near or remote, would impair its value. It must be unbiassed by any selfish advantage or consideration.

3. Honesty is a necessary qualification in a counselor. He should be governed only by what seems to be right in the case presented. He must be wholly uninfluenced by his knowledge of the views or feelings of the person seeking counsel. Without such strict honesty his counsel would be valueless. Counsel wholly influenced and given by the known wishes of the person asking it may be dishonest and vicious encouragement.

Second, it is affirmed that he was a wise man. Wisdom implies a knowledge and understanding of a large number of different subjects, separate and related. He could hardly be called a wise man whose knowledge is inclusive of only one subject or a few subjects. A wide range of knowledge is usually understood of one who is truly wise. Sound judgment, clear comprehension and versatility are necessary elements of wisdom. Wisdom is not a commodity to be purchased in the markets of merchandise. It is not a decoration conferred by colleges and universities, and ancient orders. It is not a patrimony to be possessed by inheritance or entailment. It is often possessed by those who never had adventitious opportunities. Many such have come into possession of a large title to wisdom, and are ranked by all who know them as wise. Though secluded and self-absorbed yet many sit at their feet with the reverence that enshrines an oracle. Jonathan, no doubt, was well informed not only in matters pertaining to the government with which he was so closely connected, but also upon many other subjects of general character and value. And so he richly and justly merited the distinction accorded him of being a wise man.

Third, it is affirmed that he was a scribe. That term was used in the Holy Scriptures to designate a clerk, writer or secretary. That was a very considerable employment in the court of the kings of Judah, in which the Scriptures often mention the secretaries as the first officers of the crown. As there were but few in those times that could write well, the employment of a scribe or writer was necessary and common. Scribes were often occupied in transcribing the laws. In that way they became familiar with the laws, and so finally became interpreters and judges of the law. They also were teachers of the law, both civil and ecclesiastical. Hence a scribe was understood to be an able and skilful man; a doctor of the law; a man of learning; one that understands affairs.

The scribes of the people, who are frequently mentioned in the Gospel, were public writers and professed doctors of the law, which they read and explained to the people. It is not unlikely that the scribes received their education in the schools of the prophets, since we do not read of any other schools of learning than those among them. Their name implies some degree of scholarship, and no inconsiderable degree either. We find our Lord joining prophets and wise men and scribes together. The scribes and doctors of the law, in Scripture phrase mean the same thing. He that in Matthew is called a doctor of the law or a lawyer, in Mark is named a scribe, or one of the scribes.

Thus we find that a scribe was a sort of journalist. He was a recorder of matters and events. He was a historian of his time, and so was a valuable member of society. He was for his time a journalist. In modified form the office and profession have come down to our time, and has attained a magnitude and influence never reached before. Journalism has come to be one of the very most potent instrumentalities in the affairs of the world. Its immense power is seen and felt in every department of human pursuit and thought. In the religious, political, secular, education, commercial, scientific; indeed, in everything, its use is invoked and its power is felt. It is a powerful and honorable instrumentality in the promotion of our civilization. It usually stands for right and progress. It is supported by incalculable sums of capital and is conducted by as large an amount of learning and talent as can be found in any branch of human endeavor. As we might expect, evil persons have employed this effective agency to promote vicious ends. What we understand by "yellow journalism" flaunts its hideous form in our faces in some instances. But take it as a whole the journalism of to day, and the world, is of an exalted and meritorious character. And the persons connected with that department of our activities will compare favorably with that of any other. They are true and generous benefactors and well deserve the commendation and honor of all who heartily wish the betterment of universal humanity.

It is hardly necessary that I should add a word in application of what I have briefly delineated in the foregoing. My hearers have, no doubt, made the application as I have proceeded with the outline. You have recognized the portrait, though the execution may have been imperfect. Mr. Doying, in a remarkable measure, was the exemplification of all that is implied in the terms of the text, and in its attempted elucidation. To many of us he was a frequent counselor. Intelligence, sincerity and honesty always united in a living value to his counsels. Our perplexities have been relieved or removed by his kind suggestion and advice. Thereby he has averted harm, and afforded help to many in their varied dangers and discouragements. That of itself is a grand and glorious mission and achievement. To be able to accomplish it worthily is enough to yield satisfaction while living, and the best immortality after death. We shall miss him as a counselor in our future need and ignorance.

He was truly wise. From his capacious treasury of wisdom, by tongue and pen, he has enriched us with noble thoughts and motives. The subjects treated upon in either method were illuminated and bore the marks of high and broad intelligence. Whether we accepted the utterance or not, we were impressed with the wisdom of the oracle.

As a recorder of current events and thought, he always displayed marked intelligence upon the subjects taken in hand, and fairness, and truthfulness, and dignity in their statement. He gave us an example of able, honest, pure and elevating journalism.

If it would not have made this service unseemly long many other conspicuous characteristics might properly have been mentioned in this address. Such as the energy manifested in early youth in making his start in life, poor in everything except strength of body and will, and the inspiration of an honorable ambition; his thorough mastery of his chosen calling of the printer's art; his able editorial career; his patriotic service in the war of the rebellion; his valuable and devoted services in behalf of many fraternal organizations; his activity and usefulness in promoting public enterprises; his uprightness in his dealings with his fellow men; and, more than all else, his home and domestic life; all these, and more, were worthy of notice and amplification and commendation. But these facts and virtues have been so long observed that they need no mention either in praise or the departed or for the impression and benefit of the living.

Some of us have seen our brother, in solemn ceremony, bow at the cross of the world's Redeemer; we have gone with him to the tomb of Joseph, and witnessed his triumphant victory over death; with him from Olivet, with wistful gaze, saw our risen Lord enter the opened heaven, where He ever lives to make intercession for us.

LAD TO REST

We may not affirm, but we may devoutly wish, that during these long and weary months of suffering, and meditation, and prayer, our brother by faith accepted Him as his Savior.

And let us who live delay not in our personal acceptance of the same, and only, Savior of men!

Some lines of J. G. Holland admirably fit this occasion and are happily descriptive of our friend:

"God give us men, a time like this demands

Strong minds, great hearts, true faith, and ready hands;

Men, whom lust of office cannot kill;

Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;

Men, who possess opinions and a will;

Men, who have honor; men who will not lie;

Men, who can stand before a demagogue

And scorn his treacherous flatteries without winking;

Tall men, sun-crowned,

Who live above the fog in public duty, and in private thinking;

For, while the rabble with their thumb-worn creeds,

Their loud professions, and their little deeds,

Mingle in selfish strife,

Lo, Freedom weeps,

Wrong rules the land,

And waiting justice sleeps."

A solo, "Gathering Home," was then most beautifully sung by Miss Anne Young. At the conclusion of the funeral address the remains were tenderly borne from the home and taken to Diamond Grove cemetery where they were laid away in a grave that was robbed of much of its sadness by the beautiful floral emblems.

The honorary bearers were officers of the grand lodge of the Independent Order of Mutual Aid, Messrs. J. M. Irwin, of Quincy, vice grand president; Charles D. Brainerd, of Peoria, grand secretary; F. S. Mosher, of Sandwich, grand treasurer; Charles E. Axt, of Rockford, grand trustee; R. W. Glasebrook, of Chicago, grand trustee; Oscar F. Avery, of Pontiac, deputy grand president, and S. T. Walker, of Chicago, representing T. J. Schofield, past grand president.

The active bearers were: Hon. William H. Hinrichsen, W. L. Fay, W. E. Veitch, Andrew Russell, E. G. Harris, Nathan Jerald, of Springfield, and J. O. Priest.

At the grave the burial service of the I. O. M. A. was conducted by Charles D. Brainerd, vice grand president, and music was furnished by a quartet composed of Miss Phoebe Kreider, Miss Inez Huckleby, Mr. O. L. Hill and Mr. Melville Kennedy, who sang "Abide With Me" and the burial hymn of the order.

The floral display at the house was most beautiful and the many handsome emblems and set pieces had been banked around the casket until one side of the large parlor was completely hidden beneath the magnificent array. Among the set pieces and panels were a white cross from Hospitalier Commandery, Knights Templar, an emblem from the order of the Knights of Pythias with the letters F. C. B., crescent and star from the D. O. K. K., pillow from the Chicago lodge of the I. O. M. A., spray of ferns and roses from the employees of the Illinois Courier, pillow with the word "Father" from the children, panel of palms and lilies from the employees of the Rock Island offices of Chicago where Mrs. E. A. Olds is employed, panel from Harmony and Jacksonville lodges, A. F. and A. Masons, a large panel from the grand lodge of the I. O. M. A. and a spray from the members of Jeffries Concert band. In addition to the set pieces and emblems there were an infinite number of cut flowers, tokens sent by intimate friends of the family.

The flowers were tenderly cared for by loving friends.

Those who attended the funeral from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Olds, of Chicago; Miss Emma Doying, a niece, of Havenhill, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Morris, of Carlyle; N. R. Jerald, of Springfield, and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Swales, of Springfield.

GRAND ARMY REUNION

Features of National Encampment at Boston.

ILLUMINATION TO BE GORGEOUS.

Over 35,000 Lights Will Be Utilized in the Electric Display—Many Girls to Participate in Parade of a "Living Flag"—Unique Automobile Ride for the Veterans.

According to Comrade W. A. Weatherbee, who has in charge all arrangements for the electrical illumination during the national G. A. R. encampment at Boston next month, it will be the most gorgeous lighting display ever seen in New England.

The devices, the arrangements and the detailed effects are to be kept profound secrets and sprung, or rather, turned on as a big surprise.

Mr. Weatherbee, who chatted with a Boston Herald man the other day, said: "Everything is moving along with the most wonderful celerity. There are no hitches in the arrangements, and I feel justified in saying that the illumination, both in extent and in effect, will be the greatest ever seen in Boston."

Our contract with the Edison company will call for about 35,000 incandescent lights. The main portion of the display will be in and about the Public Garden, which we hope to make a sunburst of glory. Then we shall illumine portions of Commonwealth avenue, Arlington street and sections of the Common.

"We expect to have the entire route of parade a solid mass of decorations, and I have detailed special men to interview every person who owns property or rents property along the route, asking them to decorate. This will be more effective than a circular addressed to the people, and the men who call will offer suggestions to each decorator, so that a harmonious effect may be obtained. We estimate that there will be from 25,000 to 35,000 men in line, and as many more who will attend the encampment who will not march."

One of the interesting features in connection with the Grand Army parade in Boston will be that of the "living flag." Its composition requires the presence of nearly 2,200 children from the several schools of the city. They will be arranged in double rows, clad in colored caps and capes, representing the several red and white stripes and the blue field of the flag. They form a picture grand and inspiring beyond description. Arrangements for the feature have been placed in charge of Mrs. Lue Stuart Wadsworth, past national patriotic instructor of the Woman's Relief corps.

The children will be divided into two sections of 1,100 each, and each section will sing alternately, thus insuring constant singing during the parade.

James M. McLaughlin, director of music in the Boston schools, will be the musical conductor for this occasion.

An automobile parade will be one of the features of the Grand Army encampment, says the Boston correspondent of the Washington Post.

This is not to be simply a long line of horseless carriages for the delegates to look at, but the latter are to be invited to step in and take a seat. They will then be taken on a ride over one of the most historical routes that could be found in the United States. It will follow out the famous ride of Paul Revere. From within sight of the tower of the Old North church—from which the famous rider received his signal—and from within sight of the Bunker Hill monument, the party will move out on the old Bay road, now known as Massachusetts avenue.

Over the Charles river into Cambridge the visitors will be taken past Harvard college and the old Washington elm, where Washington assumed command of the army of the revolution. Here also will be seen the old Longfellow home and the house where James Russell Lowell lived.

Over one of the finest roads in the country they will reach Lexington, where they will see the old Monroe tavern, which is rich in historical lore. Here is where Earl Percy, with his reinforcements, was enabled to hold back the American patriots while he converted the tavern into a hospital. In the barroom is to be seen a hole made by a British musket ball. Here also is a chair in which Washington sat while on his visit to Lexington in 1778.

Six miles beyond Lexington the visitors will arrive at Concord, also rich in its historical associations. Some of the superstitious people of Concord fully believe that the soldiers of Concord will be called out for actual war service April 19, 1947.

To form some idea of the length of this automobile parade it will only be necessary to reflect that 1,500 or 1,600 visitors will be carried in the line. The number of automobiles necessary to make this procession will be large. The line will be very long. As they start they will diverge, one half pursuing one route and the other half another, meeting at a point on the route, probably Concord, each passing in review before the other section. It is estimated that there will be over 700 automobiles in this procession.

Corn That Birds Will Not Bother.

A well known farmer says he wets his seed corn with coal oil before planting it, and as a result the birds and insects do not bother it before it comes up. The oil does not injure the germ and keep it from sprouting, says the Filmore (Mo.) Lever. This has been proved by experience, as he has never had to replant.

COMPANY L IN CAMP.

Company L of this city joined the other companies of the Eighth in camp at Springfield Saturday. There was no work at the camp yesterday, with the exception of regimental parade in the afternoon.

This morning the inspection of the regiment will be held at 8 o'clock and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon church call will be sounded and religious services will be conducted by the chaplain of the regiment, John F. Thomas. Parade in the evening will close the work of the day.

The Eighth will make a fine showing in camp. The members number about 750. At the close of their term in camp they will not go to St. Louis as was at first intended, but will return to their homes.

LIFE SKETCH OF FAMED PIANIST

Miss Louise Love Known as a Child Prodigy Has Developed Wonderful Powers—With Thomas Orchestra as Solo Pianist—Now a Guest in the City.

Music, the art divine, has commanded the attention of some of the greatest men and women the world has ever known. It is one of the oldest of the arts, and even among the most primitive people, a crude development can be traced. With the passing of the ages the art has been developed and musical instruments of infinite variety have been invented until at the present time the art has reached a stage of perfection hitherto unknown.

One of the greatest, if not the greatest of all musical instruments, is the piano, which was given to the world in the early part of the 17th century, the idea having been conceived independently by three different musicians living in different parts of Europe.

In modern times this instrument has attained a popularity beyond that of any other musical instrument. It possesses all the powers of nearly every other instrument and on no other except the organ can such a complete succession of harmonies be executed. Many of the most eminent musicians have devoted themselves to composing for the piano forte, and various schools of music have arisen for the interpretation of musical writings. One of the greatest of modern composers and a musician whose school of music is fast gaining in favor is Leschetizki. Miss Louise Love, of Searcy, Ark., who is now a guest at the home of Mrs. W. T. Brown, of Sandusky street, is a pupil of this school and a musician who has won fame for herself both as a child prodigy and as a concert pianist.

Miss Love is not unknown in Jacksonville, as she visited here some four or five years ago and at that time her wonderful musical ability astonished and won the admiration of critics. Since her former visit to this city Miss Love, who is but 15 years of age, has had many triumphs and a brief sketch of her career will be of interest.

She very kindly consented to an interview with a Journal representative recently and spoke in the most modest manner of her ability, which is indeed marvelous and of her many triumphs which might have easily produced a vain spirit in many an older musician. In response to a number of questions Miss Love said:

"I cannot remember when I first began to play. Playing was always easy and perfectly natural for me and my memory for tunes was always very acute. After hearing a piece once I could usually reproduce it with almost perfect accuracy. At the age of 5 years I began to take music lessons and have continued my music course with little interruption until the present time. My mother was a musician of ability, but not of exceptional merit. Talent is a queer quality and one who may be said to possess it cannot accurately describe it. Music has always been a great delight for me and I play with great ease. I never use notes except in learning a piece for the first time. My present teacher will give me a composition of a most difficult nature one day and expect me to play it for him the next without my notes. One of the most difficult selections of my concert repertoire I have not seen the score of for over two years yet I have two perfect pictures of the selection and every punctuation mark about it; one is a memory picture and the other is a picture of the printed page.

"I have received instruction from many celebrated teachers of music, but I feel that I never had but one real teacher, Harold von Mickwitz, whose pupil I have been for the last four years. Von Mickwitz is the head of the musical department of the North Texas college, located at Sherman, Texas. He is a Finlander by birth and a direct pupil of Leschetizki and has been in this country but a few years. He is a young man and is fast becoming known through his pupils.

"I am fully convinced myself that there is only one school of music and that is the Leschetizki school. It is the commonsense school of music and I feel will soon come to be recognized as the only school.

"Last winter I played with the Theodore Thomas orchestra as solo pianist in a series of three concerts given in Texas. I have also played with the Chicago Symphony orchestra as solo pianist and with many other orchestras. Recently I gave a series of concerts at the Texas building at the world's fair. I expect to graduate from the literary department of the North Texas college in the class of '05 and next spring will make a tour of the east as a concert pianist. My supreme ambition is to become a great Leschetizki pianist."

Miss Love speaks in a very reserved manner regarding her wonderful talent, but she possesses the unmistakable marks of genius and her fine musical temperament and keen musical perception is evidenced by her intelligent interpretation of the writings of the great composers.

In addition to her great musical powers Miss Love is a young lady of charming personality.

Friends of Miss Love will be pleased to learn that she will give a recital at Westminster church Thursday evening, July 28th, when she will be assisted by Mrs. John R. Robertson, vocalist.
